1.1 Background

India, a tourism hotspot in the world, has a large bouquet of visitor attractions to boast off. Its widespread diversity has always attracted both foreigners as well as its' own citizens alike, to explore its mirth and gaiety that it has to offer the world. Every nook and cranny of the country offers exquisite as well as exclusive tourism resource which echoes heritage as well as tradition of that particular area. There is hardly any country in the world which offers such wide variety of tourism.

The total domestic visits and foreign overnight visitor visits in the country for the year 2005 stood at 390.5 Mn and 3.92 Mn respectively. For the year 2004 the total domestic visits and foreign overnight visitor visits in the country stood at 366 Mn and 3.46 Mn respectively. However, India's percentage share in International tourist arrivals still remains paltry at 0.49% and its share in the total world tourism receipts stands at a miniscule 0.85% during the year 2005.

The Govt. of India has embarked on a plan to promote Indian tourism focusing primarily on the resources – their strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats, plans and strategies to promote them.

Keeping in mind the above considerations, Ministry of Tourism, Government of India embarked on a plan to outsource collection activity of tourism statistics for the different states. ACNielsen ORG-MARG Pvt. Ltd. was entrusted with collection of tourism statistics for the State of Orissa. The assignment was for a period of 12 months only.

4.1 Overview of Methodology adopted

ACNielsen ORG - MARG conducted the research with a blend of secondary as well as primary research. Secondary research is meant to accrue desired information from the different sources, indicated below. The detailed task wise methodology, target groups and information procured from each source has been mentioned below: Broad methodologies have been discussed under separate heads

Task 1: Literature Review and Desk Research

The task involved collection, collation and review of different facets of tourism in the State of Orissa. Under this task, steps were taken in order to collect and collate information from the different sources as mentioned below. Selective telephonic interview was also undertaken in order to procure the requisite information:-

Information Source	Information procured	Proposed Output
Online Research / Publications of various types/ interaction with Ministry of Tourism officials	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Prime/ subsidiary Visitor destinations in the State and their respective USP • Tentative no. of accommodation units at the prime visitor destinations 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Earmarking locations to be covered during the Primary research

The Task 2 (Primary Research) was subdivided into the following activities:-

1. Finalization of questionnaire in consultation with Ministry of Tourism officials
2. Preparation of the field plan schedule
3. Execution of field work across the state on a monthly frequency – through structured questionnaires
4. Back checks to ensure consistency and inter – consistency of the data collected from different sources.

The questionnaire/ discussion guide has been incorporated in the Annexure

Field professionals of ACNielsen ORG-MARG having immense experience in handling high-end contacts carried out the primary research work.

Task 3: Coding and Data Entry

The data collated from various sources was cross checked and back checked and coded. The coded data was entered into pre-designed soft format. The data was cross checked in order to ensure quality data for the purpose of analysis.

Task 4: Analysis

The corrected data was analyzed in order to churn out the requisite information in accordance with the research objective. Immensely experienced researchers of ACNielsen ORG-MARG were engaged in carrying out the Analysis.

Task 5: Report Writing

The data was used to generate the desired reports at a monthly, quarterly and yearly frequency.

4.2. Approach for earmarking visitor destinations

After listing all prime destinations in the State, experienced research executives of ACNielsen ORG – MARG in consultation with officials of Department of Tourism, Government of Orissa and Ministry of Tourism, Government of India, stratified visitor destinations in a particular state into the following three categories:-

A: Prime destinations – To be visited twice every month

B: Moderate destinations – To be visited once every month

C: Less important destinations – To be visited once every month

District wise destinations, their location, importance as well as categorization have been provided in the Tables below.

4.3. Approach for sampling visitors in earmarked destinations

Exit interviews were conducted amongst sample visitors. The exit interviews were conducted simultaneously in 2 time clusters – morning/late morning and post noon / evening across all locations. Destination specific sample size was determined using statistical formulae as mentioned below.

$$n = \frac{H^2 \times P \times (1-P)}{\delta^2}$$

Where n = Sample size
 H = confidence level factor
 P = Prevalence Rate
 δ = Tolerance level

In the state of Orissa there are 105 destinations (list provided in the previous chapter) the methodology adopted to collect monthly statistics is as follows:

- A particular prime destination - P1 covered on say Day 1, Day2, Day 3, & Day4 of the first week i.e. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday & Wednesday of Week 1 of the month.
- In Week2 of the month the same destination P1 covered on Day 5, Day 6 and Day 7 i.e. Thursday, Friday and Saturday of Week 2 of the month.
- In Week 3 of the month the same destination P1 covered again on Day1, Day2, Day 3, & Day4 of the third week i.e. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday & Wednesday of Week 3 of the month.
- In Week 4 of the month the same destination P1 covered on Day 5, Day 6 and Day 7 i.e. Thursday, Friday and Saturday of Week 4 of the month.
- Thus there are visitor traffic for destination P1 in a month for 14 days i.e.
 - ✓ for each day of a week there are two observations in a month
 - ✓ considering various multipliers which may govern the flow of traffic at a particular location , these multipliers could be
 - holiday
 - festival
 - seasonal
 - any untoward situation
 - political /social instability
 - any other
 - ✓ These multipliers have been assigned in the form of weights to each of the observations to get a weighted average for a particular day.
 - ✓ This is projected for a month for Prime destination P1

The same methodology is used for Moderate destinations wherein also the data for 14 days has been captured. In case of less important destination the same approach was adopted but for a period of 7 days.

4.4. Selection criteria for visitors for interview at a particular location

The selection of sample was done at exit points since it is a better choice of collating general information covering the several aspects including expenditure on different items of equal importance. Each interview was restricted to eight or ten minutes. The frequency of conducting the interview has already been indicated above. The information collected has been elaborated in the respective questionnaires. The experienced investigators of ACNielsen ORG MARG observed the flow of visitor traffic for a particular time cluster and depending on the mix of visitor traffic (domestic/ international/ day) visiting the location at that particular time cluster, decided upon the sample respondent categories (domestic/ international/ day), to be contacted to procure information. Logical checks to eliminate bias between domestic and day tourists were incorporated in the questionnaire. (pls. refer annexure for details). The head of the family/ group of visitor was interviewed in order to eliminate bias.

The term overnight visitors have been defined as “the tourists visiting the destinations/locations and staying overnight”. In the report, the overnight visitors have been further classified into domestic overnight visitors and foreign overnight visitors and have been so referred to in the subsequent chapters.

4.5. Estimation of sample size to be contacted at each location

The sample size for no. of visitors to be contacted during the course of primary field work was determined on the basis of the visitor visits to the state in the year 2003. As per the Statistics released by Ministry of Tourism, Govt. of India for the year, the total no. of visitors visiting the State was 3726265, with an overwhelming majority of domestic overnight visitors (in the tune of 99.3%) visiting the states.

Considering the above figure as base, the sample size calculated using the formulae indicated above, at 99% level of confidence was 16514. Distributing the same over earmarked locations (105) over a period of 12 months, the no of visitors to be contacted in each location would be 13.

$$= 16514 / (12 \times 105) = 13$$

4.6. Approach for procuring information from Accommodation Units/ Guest Houses/ Dharmashalas / Restaurants at each of the destinations

- ✓ In this segment a twin approach was carried out. Firstly, through secondary research, generation of the list of hotels, guesthouses, dharamshalas, and restaurants in a particular place but this only provided the registered ones.
- ✓ Next by adoption of a snow balling approach, generation of the list of unregistered ones with the help of local tour operators, travel and booking agents, representatives/brokers at the stations and bus stands.
- ✓ Preparation of a consolidated list including both registered and unregistered hotels and carry out the exercise of FIXATION.
- ✓ Compilation of the information indicated above, unit wise, on a monthly basis

- ✓ This exercise was carried out in the end of a particular month, which may be spilled over to first week of subsequent month to get the information of the preceding month.

4.7. Approach for procuring information from Agents / Tour Operators

A list of tour operators in the earmarked locations was generated. The questionnaires designed for the tour operators were administered among the identified tour operators at a frequency of 1 month.

4.8. Approach for procuring information from Handicraft Shops

A similar approach, like that of the tour operators was adopted for the handicraft shops. The approach and frequency of contact remained the same.

4.9. Approach for estimation of Day tourists at various locations

In consultation with the State Tourism Department, Accommodation Units and Tour Operators contacted, locations in the State were identified, which were visited only by the day tourists. Weightage was accorded to those locations on the basis of their importance, seasonality of visitor traffic flow (from past records) etc.

Certain areas had entry tickets. Estimation of day tourists for those locations was done from the records of ticket sales in those locations.

For other locations which did not have entry tickets, an estimation procedure was adopted, in which the proportion of day tourists was calculated from the visitor interview. Finally using the records collated from accommodation units and using weightage for the particular area, the estimated no. of day tourists for a particular location was calculated.

4.10.Details of Sample Size of Visitors

A Total of 7860 overnight visitors (including domestic and foreign) were interviewed at various locations in the state of Orissa in order to draw an indicative trend of their profile across the entire year –survey period

As mentioned in 4.5, the total sample size of the overnight visitors should have been 16,500 but the sample achieved across 114 (During the inception report stage wherein the State Government had given an list of 105 destinations but during the course of the survey & discussions the destination covered across the year have been increased to 114) locations for a period of 12 months was 7860. The main reason for this variance is as under

- ✓ All the 114 target destinations were not destinations, which were visited by overnight visitors, number of destinations were only visited by day tourists, which has not been reflected above – 49 locations are such wherein there were only day visitors, besides this there were certain location wherein there were very few tourists round the year.
- ✓ The consultant had categorized the locations as – prime destinations, moderate destinations & destinations of less importance. Hence as per the criteria set the consultant had carried out the survey at the destinations during a given day of the month wherein at a number of destinations the required sample of 13 tourists for a period of 12 months could not be achieved.

ANNEXURES

Annexure I: Feedback on Methodological and Operational Issues

Selection of Survey Locations

The focus of present survey was on visitor destinations of the state. The methodology adopted for selection of survey location was as follows:

- Step 1 :- Consultation with the State Government
- Step 2 :- Finalisation of locations, wherein survey was to be carried out
- Step 3 :- Census of Accommodation Units in the finalized locations
- Step 4:- Fixation of Units in form of a panel and collation of data at a monthly frequency.
- Step 5:- Categorisation of visitor spots within the identified locations viz. A, B and C, wherein category A was visited 3 times a week, Category B – twice a week and Category C Once a week.
- Step 6:- Carrying out visitor interview in each of these locations. No. of visitors to be interviewed at each location was pre determined from the sampling frame. The data was used to estimate the day tourists.

As all locations in a particular state was not covered, hence considerable discrepancy existed with regard to the Total visitor visits in the State as some of the state governments argued. Further, a considerable amount of discrepancy existed with regard to the estimated no. of day tourists, which varied from the State Government Estimates. It is suggested that in future, a census of all accommodation units in the State to be undertaken. This should also encompass the locations classified under “other” locations previously. The accommodation unit profiling shall be provided in only 1 report (Annual), while the data collated from these units shall be provided in each monthly report. This would provide a much more comprehensive picture for the Accommodation Units in the State. A similar census for the Tourism Service providers (Travel Agents/ Tour Operators/ HORECA's) may provide the State as well as the Centre with a tool highlighting the total tourism infrastructure in the State.

Secondary Research

Time Series data could be collected on major issues relating to tourism from State Government Departments, Corporations, Public Sector undertakings etc. Combining the primary and secondary data on visitor inflow and discussions with knowledgeable persons, future projections could be made on visitor inflow. Cost benefit analysis of tourism development in the state can also be attempted. (On the basis of infrastructure developed for tourism and income & employment generation on account of tourism).

Survey Instruments

Apart from asking the visitors about North Eastern States and Buddhist circuits (or any other major tourism product), focus shall have to be provided on their enabling factors and their motivations for visiting the particular locations/ State and their reasons for choosing the same.
