

Executive Summary

1. Tourism in Uttarakhand

Uttarakhand became the 27th state of India on November 9, 2000. It borders Tibet in the north-east and Nepal to the south-east, while its neighboring states are Haryana, Himachal Pradesh and .

Uttarakhand is a region of outstanding natural beauty. The high Himalayan ranges and glaciers cover most of the northern parts of the state, while the lower reaches are densely forested. The unique Himalayan ecosystem plays host to a large number of animals (including bharal, snow leopards, leopards and tigers), plants and rare herbs. Two of India's mightiest rivers, the Ganga and the Yamuna take birth in the glaciers of Uttarakhand, and are fed by innumerable lakes, glacial melts and streams in the region.

The tourism industry is a major contributor to the economy of Uttarakhand, with the Raj era hill-stations at Mussorie, Almora, Ranikhet and Nainital being some of the most frequented destinations. To this region also belong some of the holiest Hindu shrines, and for almost 2000 years now pilgrims have been visiting the temples at Haridwar, Rishikesh, Badrinath and Kedarnath in the hope of salvation and purification from sin. Recent developments in the region include initiatives by the state government to capitalize on the burgeoning visitor trade. The state also plays host to some of the worst conceived big-dam projects in India such as the monstrously large Tehri dam on the Bhagirathi-Bhilangana Rivers.

Ministry of Tourism, Government of India initiated pilot surveys in ten states including Uttarakhand state on a plan to outsource collection activity of tourism statistics for the different states. ACNielsen ORG-MARG Pvt. Ltd. was entrusted with collection of tourism statistics for the State of Uttarakhand. The pilot survey was for a period of 12 months with the purpose to gain experience for future surveys.

Chapter 1

Introduction

1.1 Background

India, a tourism hotspot in the world, has a large bouquet of visitor attractions to boast of. Its widespread diversity has always attracted both foreigners as well as its' own citizens alike, to explore its mirth and gaiety that it has to offer the world. Every nook and cranny of the country offers exquisite as well as exclusive tourism resource which echoes heritage as well as tradition of that particular area. There is hardly any country in the world which offers such wide variety of tourism.

The total domestic overnight and foreign visitors to the country for the year 2005 stood at 382 Mn and 3.92 Mn respectively. For the year 2004 the total domestic visitors and foreign visitors to the country stood at 366 Mn and 3.46 Mn respectively. However, India's percentage share in total world visits still remains paltry at 0.39% and its share in the total world tourism receipts stands at a minuscule 0.69% (2005 fig.).

The Govt. of India has embarked on a plan to promote Indian tourism focusing primarily on the resources – their strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats, plans and strategies to promote them.

Keeping in mind the above considerations, Ministry of Tourism, Government of India initiated pilot surveys in ten states including Uttarakhand state on a plan to outsource collection activity of tourism statistics for the different states. ACNielsen ORG-MARG Pvt. Ltd. was entrusted with collection of tourism statistics for the State of Uttarakhand. The pilot survey was for a period of 12 months with the purpose to gain experience for future surveys.

The main aim of the proposed survey was to collect relevant tourist related statistics for understanding subtle trends related to visitors (both domestic as well as foreign ones) in the State. Additionally it was also intended to provide a comprehensive listing of available accommodation infrastructure in prime tourist destinations in the State, including those of the unorganized sector, for a period of 1 year. The survey along with an assessment of the direct employment generated by the tourism sector, estimate the expenditure patterns of tourists, tourist needs, preferences and satisfaction levels with regard to the various available facilities in the State.

Chapter 2
Tourism in Uttarakhand

2.1 Tourism in Uttarakhand – An Overview

Uttarakhand became the 27th state of India on November 9, 2000. It borders Tibet in the north-east and Nepal to the south-east, while its neighboring states are Haryana, Himachal Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh.

Uttarakhand is a region of outstanding natural beauty. Most of the northern parts of the state are covered by the high Himalayan ranges and glaciers, while the lower reaches are densely forested. The unique Himalayan ecosystem plays host to a large number of animals (including bharal, snow leopards, leopards and tigers), plants and rare herbs. Two of India's mightiest rivers, the Ganga and the Yamuna take birth in the glaciers of Uttarakhand, and are fed by innumerable lakes, glacial melts and streams in the region.

The tourism industry is a major contributor to the economy of Uttarakhand, with the Raj era hill-stations at Mussorie, Almora, Ranikhet and Nainital being some of the most frequented destinations. To this region also belong some of the holiest Hindu shrines, and for almost 2000 years now pilgrims have been visiting the temples at Haridwar, Rishikesh, Badrinath and Kedarnath in the hope of salvation and purification from sin. Recent developments in the region include initiatives by the state government to capitalize on the burgeoning visitor trade. The state also plays host to some of the worst conceived big-dam projects in India such as the monstrously large Tehri dam on the Bhagirathi-Bhilangana Rivers.

ACNielsen ORG - MARG conducted the research with a blend of secondary as well as primary research. Secondary research is meant to accrue desired information from the different sources, indicated below. The detailed task wise methodology, target groups and information procured from each source has been mentioned below: Broad methodologies have been discussed under separate heads

Task 1: Literature Review and Desk Research

The task involved collection, collation and review of different facets of tourism in the State of Uttarakhand. Under this task, steps were taken in order to collect and collate information from the different sources as mentioned below. Selective telephonic interview was also undertaken in order to procure the requisite information:-

Information Source	Information procured	Proposed Output
Online Research / Publications of various types/ interaction with Ministry of Tourism officials	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Prime/ subsidiary tourist destinations in the State and their respective USP • Tentative no. of accommodation units at the prime tourist destinations 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Earmarking locations to be covered during the Primary research

The Task 2 (Primary Research) was subdivided into the following activities:-

1. Finalization of questionnaire in consultation with Ministry of Tourism officials
2. Preparation of the field plan schedule
3. Execution of field work across the state on a monthly frequency – through structured questionnaires
4. Back checks to ensure consistency and inter – consistency of the data collected from different sources.

The questionnaires/ discussion guide has been incorporated in the Annexure

Field professionals of ACNielsen ORG-MARG having immense experience in handling high-end contacts carried out the primary research work.

Task 3: Coding and Data Entry

The data collated from various sources was cross checked and back checked and coded. The coded data was entered into pre-designed soft format. The data was cross checked in order to ensure quality data for the purpose of analysis.

Task 4: Analysis

The corrected data was analyzed in order to churn out the requisite information in accordance with the research objective. Immensely experienced researchers of ACNielsen ORG-MARG were engaged in carrying out the Analysis.

Task 5: Report Writing

The data was used to generate the desired reports at a monthly, quarterly and yearly frequency.

4.2 Approach for earmarking visitor destinations

After listing all prime destinations in the State, experienced research executives of ACNielsen ORG – MARG in consultation with officials of Department of Tourism, Government of Uttarakhand and Ministry of Tourism, Government of India, stratified visitor destinations in a particular state into the following three categories:-

A: Prime destinations – To be visited twice every month

B: Moderate destinations – To be visited once every month

C: Less important destinations – To be visited once every month

District wise destinations, their location, importance as well as categorization have been provided in the Tables below.

4.3 Approach for sampling visitors in earmarked destinations

Exit interviews were conducted amongst sample visitors. The exit interviews were conducted simultaneously in 2 time clusters – morning/late morning and post noon / evening across all locations. Destination specific sample size was determined using statistical formulae as mentioned below.

$$n = \frac{H^2 \times P \times (1-P)}{\delta^2}$$

Where n = Sample size

H = Confidence level factor, also known as Zα

P = Proportion ratio

δ = Tolerance/ precision level

The Z values for the above equation at different levels of confidence were as follows:-

90% level of confidence	1.645
95% level of confidence	1.96
99% level of confidence	2.58

The precision level for calculating the sample size was taken at 0.25.

In the state of Uttarakhand there are 21 destinations (list provided in the previous chapter) the methodology adopted to collect monthly statistics is as follows:

- A particular prime destination - P1 covered on say Day 1, Day2, Day 3, & Day 4 of the first week i.e. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday & Wednesday of Week 1 of the month.
- In Week 2 of the month the same destination P1 covered on Day 5, Day 6 and Day 7 i.e. Thursday, Friday and Saturday of Week 2 of the month.
- In Week 3 of the month the same destination P1 covered again on Day1, Day2, Day 3, & Day 4 of the third week i.e. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday & Wednesday of Week 3 of the month.
- In Week 4 of the month the same destination P1 covered on Day 5, Day 6 and Day 7 i.e. Thursday, Friday and Saturday of Week 4 of the month.
- Thus there are tourist traffic for destination P1 in a month for 14 days i.e.
 - ✓ for each day of a week there are two observations in a month
 - ✓ considering various multipliers which may govern the flow of traffic at a particular location , these multipliers could be
 - holiday
 - festival
 - seasonal
 - any untoward situation
 - political /social instability
 - any other
 - ✓ These multipliers have been assigned in the form of weights to each of the observations to get a weighted average for a particular day.

✓ This is projected for a month for Prime destination P1

The same methodology is used for Moderate destinations wherein also the data for 14 days has been captured. In case of less important destination the same approach was adopted but for a period of 7 days.

4.4 Selection criteria for visitors for interview at a particular location

The selection of sample was done at exit points since it is a better choice of collating general information covering the several aspects including expenditure on different items of equal importance. Each interview was restricted to eight or ten minutes. The frequency of conducting the interview has already been indicated above. The information collected has been elaborated in the respective questionnaires. The experienced investigators of ACNielsen ORG MARG observed the flow of tourist traffic for a particular time cluster and depending on the mix of tourist traffic (domestic / foreign/ day) visiting the location at that particular time cluster, decided upon the sample respondent categories (domestic / foreign/ day), to be contacted to procure information. Logical checks to eliminate bias between domestic overnight visitors and day tourists were incorporated in the questionnaire. (Pls. refer annexure for details). The head of the family/group of visitor was interviewed in order to eliminate bias.

The term overnight visitors have been defined as “the tourists visiting the destinations/locations and staying overnight”. In the report, the overnight visitors have been further classified into domestic overnight visitors and foreign overnight visitors and have been so referred to in the subsequent chapters.

4.5 Estimation of sample size to be contacted at each location

The sample size for no. of visitors to be contacted during the course of primary field work was determined on the basis of the visitors to the state in the year 2003. As per the Statistics released by Ministry of Tourism, Govt. of India for the year, the total no. of visitors to the State was 10890469, with an overwhelming majority of domestic overnight visitors (in the tune of 99.5%) visiting the states.

Considering the above figure as base, the sample size calculated using the formulae indicated above, at 99% level of confidence was 5298. Distributing the same over earmarked locations (20) over a period of 12 months, the no of visitors to be contacted in each location would be 22.

$$= 5298 / (12 \times 20) = 22$$

The statistically derived sample size more or less matches if 0.05% of the total visitors to the State of Uttarakhand in the year 2003 is taken into account. The no. of contacts to be made in each location comes to 23 in that calculation.

Hence, the no. of contacts to be made is approximately 22-23 per location.

4.6 Approach for procuring information from Accommodation Units/ Guest Houses/ Dharmashalas / Restaurants at each of the destinations

- ✓ In this segment a twin approach was carried out. Firstly, through secondary research, generation of the list of hotels, guesthouses, dharamshalas, and restaurants in a particular place but this only provided the registered ones.
- ✓ Next by adoption of a snow balling approach, generation of the list of unregistered ones with the help of local tour operators, travel and booking agents, representatives/brokers at the stations and bus stands.
- ✓ Preparation of a consolidated list including both registered and unregistered hotels and carry out the exercise of FIXATION.
- ✓ Compilation of the information indicated above, unit wise, on a monthly basis
- ✓ This exercise was carried out in the end of a particular month, which may be spilled over to first week of subsequent month to get the information of the preceding month.

4.7 Approach for procuring information from Agents / Tour Operators

A list of tour operators in the earmarked locations was generated. The questionnaires designed for the tour operators were administered among the identified tour operators at a frequency of 1 month.

4.8 Approach for procuring information from Handicraft Shops

A similar approach, like that of the tour operators was adopted for the handicraft shops. The approach and frequency of contact remained the same.

4.9 Approach for estimation of Day Tourists at various locations

In consultation with the State Tourism Department, Accommodation Units and Tour Operators contacted, locations in the State were identified, which were visited only by the day tourists. Weightage was accorded to those locations on the basis of their importance, seasonality of tourist traffic flow (from past records) etc.

The term day tourist is defined as "tourists visiting the destination/location for a single day and not staying overnight".

Certain areas had entry tickets. Estimation of day tourists for those locations was done from the records of ticket sales in those locations.

For other locations which did not have entry tickets, an estimation procedure was adopted, in which the proportion of day tourists was calculated from the tourist interview. Finally using the records collated from accommodation units and using weightage for the particular area, the estimated no. of day tourists for a particular location was calculated.

4.10 Details of Sample Size of Visitors

A Total of 3094 visitors (domestic/foreign/day) were interviewed in order to draw an indicative trend of their profile across the entire year –survey period.

ANNEXURES

Selection of Survey Locations

The focus of present survey was on visitor destinations of the state. The methodology adopted for selection of survey location was as follows:

- Step 1 :- Consultation with the State Government
- Step 2 :- Finalization of locations, wherein survey was to be carried out
- Step 3 :- Census of Accommodation Units in the finalized locations
- Step 4:- Fixation of Units in form of a panel and collation of data at a monthly frequency.
- Step 5:- Categorization of visitor spots within the identified locations viz. A, B and C, wherein category A was visited 3 times a week, Category B – twice a week and Category C Once a week.
- Step 6:- Carrying out visitor interview in each of these locations. No. of visitors to be interviewed at each location was pre determined from the sampling frame. The data was used to estimate the day visitors.

As all locations in a particular state were not covered, hence considerable discrepancy existed with regard to the Total visitor visits in the State as some of the state governments argued. Further, a considerable amount of discrepancy existed with regard to the estimated no. of day visitors, which varied from the State Government Estimates. It is suggested that in future, a census of all accommodation units in the State to be undertaken. This should also encompass the locations classified under “other” locations previously. The accommodation unit profiling shall be provided in only 1 report (Annual), while the data collated from these units shall be provided in each monthly report. This would provide a much more comprehensive picture for the Accommodation Units in the State. A similar census for the Tourism Service providers (Travel Agents/ Tour Operators/ HORECA's) may provide the State as well as the Centre with a tool highlighting the total tourism infrastructure in the State.

Secondary Research

Time Series data could be collected on major issues relating to tourism from State Government Departments, Corporations, Public Sector undertakings etc. Combining the primary and secondary data on visitor inflow and discussions with knowledgeable persons, future projections could be made on visitor inflow. Cost benefit analysis of tourism development in the state can also be attempted. (On the basis of infrastructure developed for tourism and income & employment generation on account of tourism).

Survey Instruments

Apart from asking the visitors about North Eastern States and Buddhist circuits (or any other major tourism product), focus shall have to be provided on their enabling factors and their motivations for visiting the particular locations/ State and their reasons for choosing the same.
